CENTRAL BAPTIST ASSOCIATION

Rev. Dr. Carter Preaches the Opening Sermon—N. Y. Gullery, Esq., Moderator.

(Special Cor. STATE CHRONICLE.)

FRANKLINTON, N. C., Sept. 30.—The Central Association met with Franklin-ton church Sept. 30th, at 11 a. m. The attendance was not large, owing, doubtless, to the inclemency of the weather. Opening service began by singing. After reading the 12 chapter of Revelations, the Association was led in prayer by Rev. W. B. Royall.

After singing, "I love thy kingdom Lord," the annual sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Carter, of Raleigh, Revelations 12:10.

Dr. Carter spoke of the mystery surrounding this book. With illustrative application, he clearly applies the figure to the church on earth and its founder and head.

The Church and its Work.

He spoke of its vast fields of work, and the possibilities that are before it. He brought before us the world in superstition and idolatry. "The earth is a needy field—it is loaded with crime and sin, the victims of sin would make a great mountain." Surely we can find no good excuse for idleness. The earth furnishes a great field of trials and conflicts. He who cannot face trials has no hope of success. "In religious life that trials are most helpful, that the trial of your faith be more precious than gold. The noblest manhood is developed in the greatest conflicts. The cross comes before the crown. The greatest saints have the greatest trials."

The earth furnishes forces and resources which the church needs—conflicts must be met—It is a mighty work which God has given to the church, but Jesus said I will be with you to the end—There is no such thing as a self-made man; if so I fear he would be proud of his maker. It is years of toil and conflict that has made him. Education is one of the great forces. The earth needs to be educated. A denomination that refuses to educate comes in conflict with God and the Bible. The printing press is a servant of the church—commerce is needful to the distribution of the gospel—the great ships wait the gospel to the heathen lands. In our work we need all the appliances of commerce—all we have constitute a sacred trust committed to us to be used for the uplifting of the world—"The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof." Let the world with all its wealth, intellect and inventions serve the Lord—educated to God. Christ in Heaven answers to our afflicted world, with his cries, tears and groans. He will bind up the broken heart and wipe all tears from our eyes, and then the conflict will be over.

As usual the Doctor gave us one of his practical and thoughtful sermons, full of the spirit of Christ and the great Christian work. It is a great inspiration to sit under the preaching of such a consecrated servant of the Lord.

After the sermon the Association was called to order by Rev. W. B. Royall, as temporary chairman. Reading of letters from churches was next in order. Nearly all the churches were represented, and the reports were encouraging. On motion the Association adjourned till 2.30 p. m.

Afternoon Session.

At 2.30 the Association was called to order. Prayer by Rev. N. S. Jones.

Election of officers: N. Y. Gullery was elected moderator; C. E. Brewer, clerk and treasurer; N. S. Jones, assistant clerk; Rev. W. B. Royall, historian.

Visiting brethren were invited to seats and the following responded: Bro J. B. Brewer, President of Chowan Baptist Female College; Rev. E. L. Pell, pastor M. E. Church, of Franklinton; Rev. C. J. Woodson, representing the Baptist Orphanage.

ALLIANCE GATHERINGS.

A PATHETIC REALITY.

LIGHT AND LOVE HAD DIED TOGETHER.

A Brave and Intrepid Fireman Goes Down to Death—His Mother's Lamp Went Out With His Life.

TUNNEL HILL, Ga., Sept. 29.—An engine on the Western and Atlantic road turned over and went down a fill of about forty feet at McVior's Switch yesterday. Engineer Adamson jumped from his engine, R. L. McClain, the fireman, was caught against the boiler head and doom, between the tender, and was not killed instantly, but lived several minutes. He called for help.

The Death of McClain.

The engine went to him and called for a light. McClain asked the engineer if he (the engine) was hurt. He told him he was, and the engineer asked McClain if he was. McClain told him he was hurt badly. He asked them to help him. They told him they could do nothing for him. He exclaimed: "My God, help me!"

These were the last words spoken by him. He was twenty-five years old.

His Mother's Lamp.

The Brunswick, Ga., Times has this: "The Western and Atlantic train left the track last night at McVior's, and Richard McClain, fireman, was killed."

That was the message, almost brutal in its brevity, that was flashed over the wires from Atlanta to The Times last Friday night. He was only a fireman, of small consequence to this matter-of-fact world, with its rush and bustle, and so a three-line item in the morning papers was his obituary.

But back of this bare notice of McClain's death is one of the most pathetic stories in the history of railroad accidents in Georgia. The dead man had a mother and family who lived in the valley of the famous Chickamauga, and about them centers the pathos of the story. But let Engineer Adamson, who stood weeping by the body of his dead man, tell it:

"He was a good boy," he said, "one of the best hearted men in the world; and he loved his family so. Every night when he would run by his home his mother would put up a light to let him know that all was well and he would answer with a light. Last night she may have watched all night, for he didn't pass, and no doubt she was troubled with the thought that something was wrong."

And something was wrong. While the faithful mother, with her lamp of love alight, was straining her eyes through the darkness of the night to catch a gleam of the flashing headlight that announced "All's well" with her son, that son was stark in death.

The eyes that had watched for the light in the window that told of the safety of mother and kindred were glazed by death. No more would they strain through the dusk of the valley for the red ray which conveyed to him a message of love from home.

Richard was dead by the track?

The loving mother, what of her?

Through the dark watches she waited at the window, in her hand the beacon that assured Richard of the well-being of the jewels of his heart.

But the rush and roar of the engine, and the flashing of the headlight through the swart reaches of the valley never came.

The minutes ticked slowly by.

"Richard is late to-night," thought the loving woman, "but I'll wait awhile longer. It is almost like a visit from him to catch a glimpse of the headlight."

So she waited till her eyes grew heavy with sleep.

And Richard was dead by the track!

Finally she said:

"I'll leave the lamp in the window and lie down awhile. I can hear the roar of the engine in time to wave the light."

Slumber came unconsciously to the loving but tired eyes. When she awoke the sun was shooting his silver arrows through the chinks of the room. The faithful heart turned toward the window. The lamp was extinguished. The mother sat up with great eyes staring at the darkened lamp. A shadow of woe came darkling over her, chilling the warm love currents of her heart.

For—Richard was dead at the track! Light and love had died together.

CRAWFORD WINNING.

Ewart's Getting Into the Alliance Illegally Is Doing Him Great Harm.

(Special Cor. of STATE CHRONICLE.)

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 30.—I went to Old Fort yesterday to hear the Congressional candidates. Crawford made a practical and strong speech. Ewart did not put in his appearance—too many Democrats there. He made an excuse of having some throat trouble and did not come to time.

Ewart's getting into the Alliance illegally is going to do him great harm. Crawford shows him up for his inconsistency, &c. Crawford is certainly too much for Ewart as the fourth of November will show.

ALLIANCEMAN.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Mr. E. C. Beddingfield, Secretary of the State Alliance, will address the people at the following times and places: Sanford, Friday, Oct. 3d.

Winston-Salem, Saturday, Oct. 4th.

The CHRONICLE hopes that every Alliance man in Moore and Forsyth counties, and every voter not in the Alliance will turn out and give the young and able speaker a large audience. They will be amply repaid.

WINSTON-SALEM.

Great Activity in Tobacco Trade—The Davis School on a Great Boom.

(Special Cor. STATE CHRONICLE.)

WINSTON, N. C., Oct. 1, 1890.—Your correspondent wishes that every North Carolinian could have been in Winston yesterday. Though there was nothing of importance to happen, it being a common Tuesday, yet there was a degree of commercial activity seldom even seen in cities east of the Mississippi and south of Baltimore. It was a different kind of activity from what most people would imagine. Early yesterday morning the familiar, old-covered wagons, the white wings of commerce in this section, came pouring in from all directions and at 11 o'clock your correspondent heard the number of such country wagons estimated at very nearly four hundred. Most of these were loaded down with new tobacco, and when they were unloaded, and the bright weed placed upon our warehouse floors, it was soon evident that there was by no means a sufficiency of room. All day long the great sales of the weed continued, and when darkness finally came the auctioneer was still found crying over great piles of the weed. The buyers were forced away by night, and many piles were left on the floors awaiting the sales to-day.

But with all the mammoth leaf sales and number of wagons, both will be surpassed to-day. Up to midnight last evening country wagons continued to pour in, and at day break this morning there was estimated to be one hundred and forty around the Orinoco warehouse alone. This means greater sales than ever to-day, and it is a blessed thing for the farmer that another warehouse has been opened to accommodate them.

Our manufacturers are filling their orders as fast as possible, being overrun by them. Nearly all the firms have called in their drummers, as they now have on file immense orders that they will be unable to fill this year. The chances are good for them to ship a net 250,000 pounds this week.

Added to this commercial activity and the general boom of the place, "The Davis Military School" cadets are flocking into the city from all quarters, there being, not including day scholars, about 185 on the grounds. This is the finest opening of any institution in the State and the national spirit of the patronage is an astonishment to all. The cadets, some of whom never before saw tobacco in the crude state, have been busily engaged in becoming acquainted with the handling and manufacturing of the weed. But they have about concluded their investigations, for Colonel Davis, after letting them satisfy their curiosity for one day, called them in to duty for the session. Of course not all of the students have arrived, the old ones seldom arriving by the first day, and there is a flattering outlook that by the close of the present session the Davis School can boast of an enrollment of over two hundred and fifty.

There are two protracted meetings going on in our city at present. The first is being held at the Burkhead M. E. Church by Pastor Ira Erwin, and the other at the First Baptist Church by Rev. H. A. Brown assisted by Rev. L. R. Pruett, of Mt. Airy. Your correspondent learns that great interest is being manifested and that a good many souls have been satisfied in Christ.

Mr. Peter M. Wilson, a good citizen, whom Raleigh was kind enough to give us, is one of Winston's most energetic and public spirited men and is a firm believer in the great future of our city. He is so fervent in his belief that this city is the best place in the South, that I honestly believe he will have all his relatives, friends and acquaintances here in a very short time. It only takes a visit here to convince an outsider that this letter is not all newspaper gush, and that some things seemingly extravagant are here in reality. M. VICTOR.

EDUCATIONAL MEETING.

To Be Held in Raleigh During the Fair.

TO ALL TEACHERS AND PERSONS INTERESTED IN EDUCATION:

A meeting of the educators and friends of education in North Carolina will be held at Commons Hall, in the city of Raleigh, Thursday, October 16th, at 8 o'clock. It is understood that something practical will grow out of this meeting. Several different propositions looking to our educational advancement will be considered, and attention will be given to any questions affecting the State's educational interests intending to be brought before the next legislature.

The most prominent educators in the State will be present and several of them have been invited to address the meeting upon subjects which will be published in the programme. Any who may be present will be gladly heard. Prof. Geo. T. Winston will preside and make the opening address.

All presidents of colleges and institutions, male and female, all teachers and professors in private schools, all county superintendents and common school teachers of institutions of learning, and all persons who are actively engaged in promoting education in this State are invited to seats on the floor of the hall and to participate in all the proceedings.

The time of the convention has been selected with a view of suiting the convenience of visitors to the Annual State Fair, many of whom will undoubtedly be glad to assist the work of the convention by their presence and counsels. Teachers and others who come for this work will likewise be enabled to see the Fair and to travel at greatly reduced rates.

Let every town in the State send its best teachers to the convention.

RALEIGH IN BRIEF.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS IN AND AROUND THE CAPITAL.

Short Items of News Gathered on the Fly by the Chronicle's Reporters.

The county candidates will speak at Milburnie today.

The city police force made ninety-two arrests last month.

The internal revenue receipts for the month of September in this district were $78,543 19.

The Central Baptist Association is having a very pleasant and profitable session at Franklinton.

Judge Boykin's condition is very much improved. He leaves for Cleveland Springs this morning.

Young Democrats, your club meets at the Mayor's office to-night. Keep this in mind and be sure you attend.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at Edenton Street Sunday School room this p. m., at 4 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

A musical will be held Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. James A. Briggs on Hillsboro street, by the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the First Baptist church. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The ladies of the "Soldiers' Home Committee" are receiving numberless letters from the editors all over the State showing great interest in the cause. They feel very much encouraged and will publish a list of prizes very soon.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Foreign Missionary Society of the 1st Presbyterian church will be held in the Lecture room, this afternoon at 4.30 o'clock. All interested in this grand cause are invited. An address will be delivered by the pastor.

Mr. O. K. Holding, of Wake Forest, brother to our worthy city attorney, has accepted a position with the Norris Dry Goods Store and desires the attention of his friends and customers drawn to this fact. He will be glad to see them one and all.

All persons interested in the industrial parade, to take place during Fair week, will please meet at the CHRONICLE office, Friday night, Oct. 3, at 7.30 p. m. Let there be a large turn out of business men, and let us have the grandest parade ever seen in North Carolina. The object of the meeting will be to map out a programme, and other matters connected with the parade.

It may be supposed by some that the election of Chas. M. Busbee, Esq., to the position of Grand Sire of the I. O. O. F. of the World, will take him away from Raleigh. We are glad to know that this is not true. All the duties of the office, which are mainly executive and judicial, can be performed in Mr. Busbee's office here. It will not in any way interfere with his law practice.

The executive committee of the State fair held its regular weekly meeting last evening. Routine business was transacted, and important matters relative to the next fair discussed and acted upon. An important preamble and resolution were adopted. The preamble recites the fact that it is believed that persons near Raleigh have been prevented from attending the fair in years past in consequence of not being able to purchase excursion tickets. The resolution calls upon all railroad managers in the State to provide cars enough, and to supply all station agents with tickets enough.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL.

The Davidson County Democratic Convention.

[Charlotte Chronicle.]

LEXINGTON, N. C., Sept. 27.—The Democratic County convention met here to-day, and nominated the following ticket:

Senate—S. E. Williams.

House—J. Leonard, J. G. Surratt.

Sheriff—C. W. Griffith.

Clerk Superior Court—H. T. Phillips.

Register of Deeds—S. W. Finch.

Treasurer—George H. Yow.

Surveyor—J. M. May.

Coroner—David D. Fritts.

A resolution was passed endorsing Senator Vance's course and instructing the members of the Legislature to vote for his re-election.

[This is a particularly strong ticket and we look to see the Democrats of Davidson elect it by a good round majority. Mr. WILLIAMS represented the county in the Senate in 1887 with signal ability, and MR. SURRATT was one of the most faithful and conscientious members of the House in 1887. The other gentlemen on the ticket are worthy of election, and will bring honor to their county.]

Don't postpone it, but go and register to-day.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

It is stated that Capt. E. W. Faucett, late principal of Finley High School of Lenoir, has declared himself as an independent candidate for Congress against Cowles.

John Paschall, the Republican candidate for sheriff of Chatham county, has been appointed postmaster at Siler City. Mr. Paschall should accept the office at Siler City as he will not be tendered the sheriff's office.—Sanford Express.

A Republican at Marion said to the representative of the Asheville Citizen: "I led the Republicans in this county for twenty years, but I cannot stand the record of that party during the present Congress."
